The National Association for Presiding Judges and Court Executive Officers (NAPCO)

NAPCO is an independent, nonprofit education and research organization of administrative leadership judges and court executives in state and local trial courts.

NAPCO's predecessor organization, the National Conference of Metropolitan Courts, was created in 1963 through the impetus of United States Supreme Court Associate Justice Tom C. Clark and a small group of chief judges and court administrators. Reducing trial court delay and improving court operations was a major thrust. Many of the caseload standards and performance guidelines today were generated through the work of the Conference in conjunction with the American Bar Association. Case processing remains a major direction.

NAPCO is the only national organization exclusively serving trial court chief administrative judges, court executives and their leadership teams. It is committed to enhancing the effective management of trial courts; modernizing adjudication and business processes; streamlining performance; advancing the Rule of Law; and promoting judicial independence and accountability. Each year the Association assembles for a 3-4 day Leadership Academy and Conference. In 2022, Anaheim, CA will be the site of this annual event August 21-24. Much of the educational programming is presented in partnership with the National Center for State Courts.

An Invitation to Join

Membership in the National Association for Presiding Judges and Chief Executive Officers is open to chief, presiding, administrative, and leadership judges, court executives and others interested in improving state and local trial courts. The cost is nominal. Particular emphasis is placed on top court leadership teams in trial courts and what they need to know and do together to improve the administration of justice.

Benefits

- ✓ Network with professionals regarding ideas, programs and solutions to trial court problems;
- ✓ Learn about innovations, trends and new approaches at annual conferences, educational events, and webinars that help foster high performing courts;
